PLAYING FOR GOLF HONORS PROGRESSES

The eliminating round of the annual individual golf championship at the El Paso Country club last week resulted in the 16 winners. The second flight constitutes the 16 losers who play for the consolation prize. Each match must be played by Sunday night.

Succeeding Him.

Mexico City, Mexico—April 18.—Approving the measure proposed by deputy Francisco Bulnes, providing for no reelection of the president, vice president and governors of states, the committee of the chamber of deputies yesterday afternoon made its report, but with some significant amendments.

The committee has added to the measure, the clauses, which if enacted will forbid the election to the presidency or vice presidency of any relative of the president or vice president.

It also is provided that a vice president cannot be elected president.

The committee members give as the reason for their recommendation the assumption that at some time a president or a vice president might use un-

IN EVERY DIRECTION REBELS SCATTER FROM THE BORDER

"Red" Lopez Surrenders to Booze in Douglas and His Other Commanding Officers Cross the Line and Surrender to United States Troops—Casualty
List Not So Large as Thought Yesterday.
The Federals Are in Peaceful Position of the Town.

ized, the rebel army occupying Agua Prieta, like Arabs, silently folded their tents and faded away this morning at daylight.

The federals under Col. Renaldo Diaz and rural chief Medina Barron entered the town without firing a shot. The rebels had run out of ammunition.

All night long rebel deserters straggled into Douglas without arms, and some gave themselves up to the American soldiers. Gen. Belisario Garcia was one of the first to surrender to the Americans. With the commander-in-chief gone, the garrison became demoralized. "Red" Lopez, another commander, came to Douglas, but did not surrender, except to honor.

INSURRECTOS "SOLD OUT."
At 3 o'clock this morning American insurrectos came across the line and declared they had been "sold out," but no one believed them and merely thought they had got "cold feet." Col. Medina was the only officer left with the rebels. He came across the line, visited his wife and daughter, who are in the city at his brother-in-law's house, and returned to Agua Prieta at 2 o'clock this morning. It is supposed he led the army away, but in which direction is not definitely known.

Medina's brother-in-law is quoted as authority that the army went west. Others say they moved eastward to join the rebels in Chihuahua.

The retreat means the loss of all gains made in Sonora in the last three months if the federals take advantage of their unexpected victory.

The federals in re-occupying Agua Prieta came in cautiously, expecting to encounter an ambush of some kind at any moment, but the rebels had vanished and there was no indication even of the direction they had taken.

FEDERAL DEAD UNKNOWN.
The government losses in yesterday's fighting may never be known.

The federals declined the assistance of the Red Cross society today, stating that the army would care for its own wounded. During yesterday's fighting the federals removed the killed and wounded to the rear, and it is understood that the dead were buried on the field.

Several bodies of dead rebels were seen on the streets of Agua Prieta by the Associated Press correspondent this morning.

At the bull ring there is evidence of desperate fighting. The main towers were literally shot into shreds by federal machine guns.

At the entrance to the first story of the tower was a rivulet of drying blood which had poured out through the doorway. Wounded and dead had been piled inside. Sitting against the wall, heavily guarded and bound, was an American who had failed to get away.

"They are not going to shoot me, are they?" he asked. He said his name was Thomas Sullivan, from Connecticut, and said he had come to Douglas from Bisbee; had crossed the line yesterday and had been arrested by the rebels, who robbed him of $100 and had driven him into the fighting line.

REBELS HAVE NO AMMUNITION.
That the rebels evacuated Agua Prieta because they had exhausted their ammunition is apparent from the stories of one or two who did not flee and by federals who entered the town. Great piles of empty cartridge shells were lying in the trenches. The federals, amply supplied, kept up their firing until 3 o'clock this morning, for the purpose, they say, of provoking a reply and exhausting the rebels' supply of cartridges.

As the rebels passed out of the city to the westward, one or two called across the line to the American troops: "We are going into the mountains, and will return when we get some cartridges."

At 10 o'clock this morning the custom house at Douglas reopened.

Douglasites Wounded.
In addition to the Douglas people reported injured yesterday, Elpidio Arce, of Douglas, was wounded in the instep and Frank Williams, a blacksmith helper in the Copper Queen Mining company, was shot in the back, while standing on a street of the so-called dangerous zone. His wound is dangerous. Jesus Alvarado, of Douglas, got a flesh wound in the leg.

Mrs. Larson was severely cut by the shattered glass of the kitchen window of her residence.

John Keith, of Douglas, was wounded in the leg while walking on the street. More than half of the city of Douglas was under fire from the beginning until the end of the battle.

Charles Wexler, a young American fighting with the insurrectos, is in Douglas, severely wounded in the breast. He is in the Red Cross hospital. Wexler's home is in Brooklyn. He said there were no wounded of Agua Prieta, all those injured having already been brought to the American side.

Rebel Commander Quits.
Balasastro Garcia, commander of the rebel Agua Prieta, surrendered himself to Capt. Gaudet of the First U. S. cavalry at 3:35 last night. He came to the line and explained that he was giving himself into the custody of an individual and not as commander of the rebels.

Arturo (Red) Lopez was in Douglas last night, but returned to his troops later.

Federals Show Bravery.
Just before night fell on the plain yesterday, a daring and brilliant bit of work was shown by the federal forces. All afternoon the federal cavalry was under fire from the rebel trenches to the east of town. The main body of the federal troops were to the rear of a long grassy draw, opening lengthwise into a right angle ravine at the north and within 400 yards of Agua Prieta. The federal commander mounted two and three men on each of the cavalry horses, and then under the full fire from the trenches of the rebels facing the mouth of this grassy draw, dashed to the ravine where the extra soldiers were dropped off the horses, the riders and horses returning to the rear to repeat the performance. In this way the federals landed under cover of the ravine and embankments several hundred foot soldiers.

Shortly after nightfall this force in the ravine crept up to the crest of the embankments and opened a terrific fire upon Agua Prieta, shooting promiscuously into every building within range of their guns.

American's Close Call.
One of the spectacular features of the late afternoon was the passage of an American. Early Crockett, of Naco, crossed the federal and rebel fighting lines. Crockett did not know that the battle was in progress until he found himself in the federal ranks. The federals took his horse and saddle, turned him loose and he came forward through the rebel forces. The rebels halted him and then passed him through their lines to the American border from which point he reached Douglas.

Mine is Exploded.
At 8:45 last night the federals

LAUGHING AT THE JUDGE DANGEROUS

There was a little comedy in police court Monday evening which was not on the regular calendar. Justice of the peace E. B. McClintock and assistant district attorney J. J. Murphy furnished the entertainment for those in attendance.

It was instigated by sergeant Powell Roberts who was the only prosecuting witness. McClintock and Murphy were arraigned on a charge of contempt of court. On the stand Roberts said: "When these men entered the court room they raised a disturbance by laughing, apparently at the judge. That is something very unusual in this court."

Then Judge Adrian Pool asked the prisoners to take the stand but they declined to do so and he said: "You are each fined $10 and will have to work it out on the rock pile the same as any other ordinary case." But he smiled when he said it, and everyone in the courtroom laughed.

CUSTOMS MEN HOLD UP DIVINE SARAH
Sarah Bernhardt, the divine Sarah, defied the United States customs authorities at the Santa Fe bridge Sunday afternoon. She had gone for a visit to the old town in an auto. She made a few small purchases including three fire opals for which Mexico is famous. Upon returning, she was stopped on the rock pile where she had to be paid on the native jewels. She demurred but the customs man was firm. Finally her manager arranged the matter with the inspector and the trip to her private car was continued.

CONSCIENTIOUS SCRUPLES MAKE JURY GETTING HARD

The death penalty as a punishment for high crime was in favor with the free holders of El Paso county. Monday morning seven of the talesmen who were examined for jurors in the Carpenter trial expressed conscientious scruples, against the infliction of the death penalty and were excused. The prejudice against capital punishment is making it difficult to secure jurors in this case, now in progress in the 24th district court.

FRIGHTENED BUT NOT INJURED BY THE CAVEIN.

Octaviano Duarte, a Mexican laborer employed by the city water department was scared by the cavein of a ditch in which he was working on Alameda avenue and taken to the emergency hospital at the police station Monday afternoon. There he was examined by assistant city health officer A. H. Butler, but was found to be uninjured.

low, where he has established headquarters and where he will maintain a small command as a personal guard. Juanque Ponce is in command at Casas Grandes, which is being held as a rear outpost in case a retreat should be necessary. He has a small force at this place.

CREIGHTON'S DEATH.

The railroad men brought further details of the death of captain Oscar G. Creighton, the dynamite devil. His men were entrenched in arroyos at Bauche Saturday and Creighton was riding along on the sorrel pony which has become almost as famous as the man himself. He was encouraging the men to greater action and defied the federals with taunts and jeers because they could shoot no better. He was firing all the time at the federals and is thought to have bowled over Capt. Jimenez with a shot from his 30-30, when a bullet caught him between the eyes. He reeled and fell from his horse almost into the trenches where his men were fighting.

REBEL OFFICER KILLED.

Capt. Escudero, an ex-federal officer who was fighting with Creighton, was killed in almost the same manner and only a few minutes later. An American named Welsh, who is said to have been from El Paso was shot in both hands Saturday but will recover. Six other insurrectos were wounded in the fight. A federal officer, probably Lieut. Miguel Baturoin is now a prisoner in the rebel camp, having been captured with two privates after he had been wounded.

Creighton was in command of the train of four cars which was run up from the south Saturday morning and was dynamited near Bauche. The train had two cars of ties in front of the engine as a preventive against a dynamite mine and his men were riding on the two rear cars. Upon the arrival in Bauche the insurrectos took a few shots at two rural scouts who turned and rode frantically into Juarez to give the alarm. He then detrained and prepared to fight from an arroyo.

From the Rebel Camp.

A prisoner of war for three days, guarded by a renegade Swede named Johnson, with a six shooter at his head, and forced to run the troop train engines between Casas Grandes and Bauche, Bob Nixon, roundhouse foreman for the Mexican National Western at Juarez, arrived in El Paso Monday after having eluded the rebels at Sapello, walked to Juarez by way of the Pecos ranch, and waded the river.

Creighton's Death.
The rebel forces have taken the town of Mesquite, near Ortiz station. Reinforcements were sent from Chihuahua on a construction train and when Ortiz station was reached about 80 insurrectos set out across country to march on the town. No further details of an encounter have been received.

The armored car which was ditched by the rebels near Zacatecas is on the track again and is now being moved to Santa Rosalia and Chihuahua. The car is painted like a checker board and can be seen for a mile on a level track. Three box cars filled with soldiers are attached to the train.

About 150 soldiers are guarding the "shoofly" track at Ortiz. The only traces of the foot bridge left are the cement columns at both approaches and the one in the middle of the bridge is across the dry riverbed and the grade is steep from both approaches.

An improvised fort has been thrown up by the federals at Bachimba station outside of Chihuahua and 70 soldiers are located there. The fort is composed mostly of timber with earth thrown up around the sides. Many women and children, composing the families of the soldiers, are housed in it.

FT. BLISS TROOPS MARCH TO THE CITY

Make a Practice March and Start Many Rumors and Much Speculation.

Practically all of the cavalry at Fort Bliss marched to the city yesterday afternoon, attracting much attention and starting many wild rumors.

Col. E. Z. Steever, who commands the troops on this portion of the border, said the movement of troops was merely for practice and that the troops would be returned to Fort Bliss last night.

With the three troops of cavalry was the Red Cross wagon, six covered army wagons loaded with commissary supplies and army mules with two rapid fire guns on their backs.

The three troops, representing all of the Fourth regiment which is not doing duty at Fort Bliss, leaving the Rio Grande, attracted much attention. On Montana street, south of the mesa, they rested while waiting for marching orders, and when the bugle at last sounded, every trooper jumped to his feet beside his horse. A large number of women on nearby porches were unable to restrain their patriotism and clapped and shouted vociferously.

Each man carried three days' ration beside him, a state of opinion, and all were equipped in heaviest order.

After the practice march through downtown streets the troops made the return hike to Fort Bliss, leaving wondering why the demonstration had been made at this time.

BRITISH PAPER LOOKS FOR AMERICAN ACTION.

London, Eng., April 18.—Referring editorially to the conditions arising through the fighting now going on between Mexican federals and insurrectos close to United States territory, the Times expresses the belief that Madero's followers will probably provoke as many fights as possible along the frontier, and if United States officials are killed or property injured by Mexican bullets, a state of opinion may be created throughout the United States which no government could afford to disregard, "although," adds the paper, "we can well believe that the Washington government will interfere with the greatest reluctance."

Ponce went back with me and returned to Bauche on a hack Friday afternoon. Creighton probably had 100 men at Bauche when the trouble commenced.

Garibaldi went to the front Friday night and returned early Sunday morning. "There is a fighter and gentleman," Nixon said. "He knows his business and he is the man in charge down there all right." The trains made three trips back and forth, bringing up the reinforcements to Sapello at Garibaldi's orders. Blanco and Orozco were on the third train below Sapello Sunday morning when the railroad men passed them walking toward kilometer 50 presumably for food, but in reality to escape to the foothills and walk to Juarez. The only Americans Nixon saw were Creighton, Johnson, the Swede, who kept him covered with his gun, two machine gun operators, and a man named Smith from Oklahoma. All of the other Americans had deserted, he said. Two Germans and two other Swedes were still with the forces.

Federal Officer Prisoner.
Three wounded rebels were brought into Sapello Saturday after the battle of Bauche, the said one was a federal officer who had a fancy sword for which the insurrecto officers were bidding $20. One dead federal was buried at Sapello Sunday. Escudero, the rebel officer who was killed with Creighton, was the son of a federal general, Nixon said, and was a very bright fellow.

Nixon had long talks with him on the trip up while they were waiting at different stations. He says he liked all of them but that Swede Johnson, who kept him covered with his six shooter and even slept with him to keep him from running away.

"I am going back here if he ever comes to this side," Nixon said.

REBEL FORCES IN HIDALGO DIVIDED

Armored Car, Ditched Near
Zacatecas, Is in Use Again.

Parral, Mexico, April 18.—After the Santa Barbara engagement orders were sent from Francisco Madero to Tomas Urbina, in command of the Hidalgo military zone, directing him to split off the rebel forces and campaign separately. This has been done. Urbina led the inde attack with success, but is now reported to be seriously wounded as a result of the latter engagement. No reports as to the whereabouts of Baca and his command have been received since the division of forces. It is presumed that he is in another section of the state of Durango.

The rebel forces have taken the town of Mesquite, near Ortiz station. Reinforcements were sent from Chihuahua on a construction train and when Ortiz station was reached about 80 insurrectos set out across country to march on the town. No further details of an encounter have been received.

It is evident, however, the Times continues, "that unless Mexico is able to restore, and maintain order, the United States must seriously consider where it is imperative to do the work for her. The contingency is disagreeable, but it is useless to ignore it."

The Philosophers and the Frog

Dr. Safford, for many years professor of chemistry in the Medical College of the University of Nashville, used to tell his students a fable—certainly a moral of which was "prove it." Certain wise men were gathered together to ascertain the explanation of a statement that when two glasses of water of equal weight are balanced on the beams of a balance scale and a frog is then put in one of the vessels the balance remains the same, thus attempting to prove the assertion that a frog has no weight when immersed in water. Each wise man had his own explanation, and there was much heated argument and discussion. At length one of the wise men said: "But it is your statement, true? Let's prove it." Of course when it came to proving it, they couldn't.

So when you hear people say that Coca-Cola is injurious, just ask them to prove it. They can't. Nobody can, because it is not injurious. But on the other hand it can be proved that it is not injurious by chemical analysis. Or if you are not a chemist yourself, why not accept the verdict of every competent chemist who ever analyzed it? Eminent College and University Chemists, Commercial Chemists, Government, State and City Analysts—all have analyzed Coca-Cola and not one has ever been able to find anything injurious in it. The very next time you hear anyone say that Coca-Cola contains deleterious ingredients, tell him to write the Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga., for a free copy of their booklet, "The Truth About Coca-Cola." In the meantime write for a copy for yourself—you will find it very interesting.

AMERICAN ARRESTED AT MEXICALI IS RELEASED

Washington, D. C., April 18.—A. H. Saleeby, an American citizen, recently arrested at Mexicali, Cal., on a charge of attempting to induce federal soldiers to desert, has been released in response to urgent representations by the state department.

Owing to the scarcity of food at Alamo, Mexico, where several American women and children are held prisoners, United States consul Schmeucker at Ensenada has been authorized by the American National Red cross to draw funds for the relief of the Americans. The prisoners are unharmed.

BERTHOOLD THREATENS TO MAKE ASSAULT ON ENSENADA

San Diego, Cal., April 18.—Simon Berthold in command of a force of insurrectos, was within two miles of Ensenada yesterday, advanced steadily upon the town and a battle was looked for before sundown last night, according to reports of the insurrectos. Today by Capt. Swanson of the fishing yacht Yankee Girl.

Swanson came from Turtle Bay and stopped at Ensenada to report. He was held up by the authorities there and prevented from landing. Everyone in the town was under arms, and the few soldiers had taken their positions behind the fort.

THINKS HE CONTRIBUTED HORSE TO INSURRECTOS

W. H. Harvey believes he has contributed a horse to the insurrectos cause. His horse was taken from the barn Saturday night and nothing has been learned of its whereabouts. Mr. Harvey lives in the 1400 block on Arizona and the horse was taken during the early part of the evening. He believes that some insurrecto sympathizer commandeered his horse and went to Mexico on its back.

CHILDREN'S FACES AWFUL WITH RASH

Ran Over Bodies, Too. Dry and Very Crusty—Used Cuticura and Did No More Scratching, Eczema Disappeared in 6 Weeks.

Now More Than Two Years Ago and No Sign of Trouble Has Returned.

"My two children suffered from an affection of the face and hands. It started first with little red spots which got bigger until they were the size of five-cent pieces. The outside of the hands came dry and very crusty. The rash on their faces was awful and after a few days it ran over the body, too.

"I had a doctor for them but he could not help. Then I read of the Cuticura Remedies. As I am a chemist, having served my apprenticeship in Germany, I did not have much confidence in them. Yet I was soon taught something better, for after I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent the first time the children felt very well and did no more scratching. Then the eczema became dry and entirely disappeared after about six weeks' treatment. This is now more than two years ago and no sign of the trouble has returned, therefore I can recommend the Cuticura Remedies without reserve to all people who are suffering with eczema. William Grelek, 74 Douglas St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 10, 1910."
